

Managing Test Cases

Sometimes it is necessary to have VUs emulate different navigating scenarios during a test in order to more accurately mimic real life situations. For example, in an e-commerce website, some VUs are browsing the catalog while other VUs are placing orders. To accommodate such testing requirements, StresStimulus should execute several test cases concurrently during the test. Multiple test cases are used mainly to emulate different categories of users, concurrently accessing a website.

Creating Multiple Test Cases

Exporting a Test Case

Editing and Deleting a Test Case

Running Multiple Test Cases